

Johnny Dundee Cains the Decision Over Charlie White in Last 15-Round Bout at Garden

Chicago Boxer Is Outpointed By Wide Margin

American and National League Sluggers Who Clash in Game To-day

Veteran New Yorker, in 561st Ring Battle, Allows His Rival Only Two Rounds

By Jack Lawrence

Johnny Dundee celebrated St. Patrick's night by fighting his 561st ring battle and scoring a brilliant victory over Charlie White, of Chicago. The diminutive Scotch Wop never fought a header or gamer encounter than the last. He delivered a half dozen blows for every one he received from White and, although the latter had an advantage in weight of seven pounds, Johnny carried the fight to him in most of the rounds.

It was Dundee's superior speed of thought that won him the victory. He was always a couple of thoughts ahead of the Chicago scrapper and repeatedly beat him to the punch.

Dundee had the better of nine of the fifteen rounds, while, as we saw the battle, White had the advantage in only two, the eighth and the thirteenth. The rest were even.

Dundee weighed 127½ and White 134½. The Chicagoan used his left almost entirely. His right came into play in the early rounds, but as the fight progressed he seemed to forget that he had such a member.

Dundee and White entered the ring a few minutes after 10 o'clock and posed for a fleet of photographers. The veteran Dundee got a great hand as he climbed through the ropes to fight the 561st ring battle of his career and the fourth with Charlie White, of Chicago. Willie Jackson was introduced and Joe Humphreys announced that White would fight to meet this scrapper, Charlie White.

The betting had drifted to even money five minutes before the boys went into action. Earlier in the day the Chicago scrapper was an 8 to 5 favorite. The weights were Dundee, 127 pounds; White, 134.

First Round Quiet

They faded a good deal in the first round and White was the first to land with a light left to the body. Dundee was not hurt, but he was telling blows to the face and body. White mixed it in the middle of the ring. The Scotch Wop, just before the bell rang, took a hard left to the chin that seemed to knock him down. He tore into the Westerner with both hands.

White gave Dundee a fierce lacing in the second round, driving terrific rights and lefts to the Italian's jaw. These were the attack of the night, telling blows to the face and body. White, however, was cool, collected and never in any trouble. It was plain, even this early in the fight, that White's right was playing an important part in the milling.

Dundee smashed White in the jaw in the fourth and jarred him back to his feet. In this round the crowd cheered and hissed when White began his old tricks of "heeling." In this session White was missing his left jab repeatedly while Dundee used his port punch to great advantage.

Dundee the Aggressor

They ripped each other viciously in the fifth. Dundee landed two hard lefts to the jaw while the crowd cheered. White kept trying his left to the midsection, but it frequently failed to get into the target. Dundee shook Dundee up and bounced him off the ropes with a hard left to the chin, but the local scrapper kept boring in. He was telling blows to his adversary.

The sixth was filled with action and fireworks and so was the seventh. In the eighth round, Dundee and White tangled with some of his well known gymnastics and succeeded in planting a number of effective jolts to White's face and body. The Chicago boy seemed to be under the influence of drives in the pantry. At this stage of the battle he appeared to forget that he had a right hand. The sixth and seventh were Dundee's.

White came to life in the middle of the eighth round and drove some powerful rights and lefts to Dundee's body. Johnny vinced under the influence of a vision drives, but he never backed up, except to bounce off the ropes in order to return to the battle with added impetus. In the ninth White again shot a hard left to the chin, but it failed to get into the target. White's punch seemed to have more behind it than the three of Dundee's. Dundee could hit White often enough, but not hard enough.

As the fight went into the tenth White's supporters advised him to start something if he wanted to grab the decision. The Westerner was not putting up half the fight he did against Willie Jackson. While the ninth was even, Dundee had all the better of the tenth, in which he danced circles around White and handed the Chicagoan a neat boxing lesson.

White chopped Dundee heavily on the chin with his left in the eleventh and drove the Italian back to the ropes, and he came back to clinch momentarily. Dundee proved in this round that he had a left of his own, for he kept sticking his left into White's face, despite all that the latter did to avoid it.

Time after time Johnny bounced off the ropes to jab White's head back with his left and bring his right in a short jab to the body. The New Yorker made a better showing against his three-time opponent than he did last summer at the Bronx Garden. He had a slight margin of advantage in the eleventh, and also in the twelfth.

The thirteenth was a slashing session in which White ripped in a series of gel drives to the stomach. They worried Dundee and slowed him up perceptibly. It was White's round.

Dundee fighting at long range had all the better of the fourteenth. White fought desperately in the last round to overcome the lead that Dundee had piled up, but it was no use.

The semi-final Jack Reeves, of California, outpointed Jay Keiser. The bout between Sammy Nable and Harry London ended in a draw, as did the curtain raiser between George Daly and Louis Guglielmi.
